

Elizabeth Battenfield

CTS-285-0001

BATHROOM TIME: 9:14 AM

restart home

> take shower

Carrying your possessions into the shower is a bad idea.

> take off clothes

[That object is either not here or not important.]

>

Enter

I gave up after my fifth try and not getting passed leaving the living room. It's a very simple game, but also challenging. You have to think of what you are doing step by step, and the clock is moving the more you type. I got stuck several times, until I realized what the baby step would be. I am just realizing I may have not needed to take a shower, but just change clothes... I may have to continue playing this game in a little while to keep trying. I like how simple this game is, and it makes you think. You also have to remember things, because there is no scroll up option and the writing disappears to make room for more.